

Sure Access to Success
www.careerheightspala.com

Watch Out!

CAREER DREAMS COLLEGE AND CIVIL SERVICE ACADEMY

PALA

YOUR VISION; OUR MISSION

Generally, no articles are used with the names of meals such as Breakfast / Lunch / Dinner / Supper.

I have the breakfast at 8 o'clock in the morning. X

I have breakfast at 8 o'clock in the morning. X

I have breakfast at 8 o'clock.

After di-transitive verbs like Elect/ Make /
Appoint, no articles should be used.

What are di-transitive verbs?

- A ditransitive verb (also called a bitransitive or double transitive verb) is a type of transitive verb that requires two objects to complete its meaning: a direct object and an indirect object.

What are di-transitive verbs?

- A ditransitive verb (also called a bitransitive or double transitive verb) is a type of transitive verb that requires two objects to complete its meaning: a direct object and an indirect object.
- Direct Object (DO): This is the person or thing that is acted upon by the verb. It answers the question "What?" or "Whom?"
- Indirect Object (IO): This is the person or thing who receives the direct object or benefits from the action. It typically answers the question "To whom/what?" or "For whom/what?"

What are di-transitive verbs?

- Ditransitive verbs typically follow one of two patterns:
- She gave him a book.
- She gave a book to him.
- Direct Object (DO): This is the person or thing that is acted upon by the verb. It answers the question "What?" or "Whom?"
- Indirect Object (IO): This is the person or thing who receives the direct object or benefits from the action. It typically answers the question "To whom/what?" or "For whom/what?"

What are di-transitive verbs?

- Common ditransitive verbs in English are often verbs of giving, sending, telling, or creating for someone:
- give, send, show, tell, teach, lend, buy, make, offer, promise, ask, etc.

What are di-transitive verbs?

give, send, show, tell, teach, lend, buy, make, offer, promise, ask, etc.

Send	I sent her an email.
Show	The guide showed us the map.
Tell	Please tell them the truth.
Teach	He taught the class a new song.
Lend	Could you lend Ken ten dollars?
Buy	We bought Dad a new tie.
Make	She made her friend a cup of tea.
Offer	The store offered customers a discount.
Promise	I promised my dog a treat.
Ask	The student asked the professor a question.

After di-transitive verbs like Elect/ Make /
Appoint, no articles should be used.

They appointed him a chairman.

They appointed him chairman.

After di-transitive verbs like Elect/ Make / Appoint, no articles should be used.

If they are used as mono-transitives,
articles can be used.

They appointed him a chairman.

They appointed him chairman.

They appointed a chairman.

They elected a leader.

After type of / sort of / kind of / post of / title of / rank of, no articles are used.

Ram was promoted to the rank of a Manager.

Ram was promoted to the rank of Manager.

After the verb 'enter', the preposition 'into' should not be used except when it is used with reference to agreement or conversation.

He entered into the room without any permission. X

He entered the room without any permission. ✓

He entered a hot discussion. X

He entered into a hot discussion. ✓

Verbs

discuss/describe/reach/order/tell/demand/resemble/ridicule etc. do not use any preposition before a direct object.

The poet describes about the beauty of nature.

The poet describes the beauty of nature.

They discussed about the issue.

They discussed the issue.

They told the truth.

Despite – In spite of

Despite of his hard work, he failed.

Despite his hard work, he failed.

In spite of his hard work, he failed. 