

THE UNITED NATIONS

One place where the world's nations can gather together, discuss common problems and find shared solutions.

United Nations

PRE HISTORY: THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

- The destruction caused by World War I and World War II led many people to desire an international organization dedicated to maintaining peace.
- So great was this desire, that shortly after the Paris Peace Conference was convened in January 1919, the Covenant of League of Nations was adopted.
- (Although the League ultimately was unable to achieve the goals of its founders, the League remained in force until 1946, when it was officially disbanded.)
- The League of Nations was an intergovernmental organization established on 10 January 1920 by the Paris Peace Conference that ended the First World War.
- It was headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland, and was the predecessor to the United Nations.

FOUNDING OF UN

- Declaration of St. James Palace (June 1941)
- World War II began in September 1939.
- By June 1941, practically all of Europe had fallen to the Axis powers.
- On 12 June 1941, representatives from various Allied powers met in London to sign the Declaration of St. James Palace.
- This declaration was a pledge of solidarity in fighting aggression.
- It proclaimed that “the only true basis of enduring peace is the willing cooperation of free peoples in a world in which, relieved of the menace of aggression, all may enjoy economic and social security.”

- Atlantic Charter (August 1941)

- In August 1941, the Axis powers seemed to have the upper hand.
- Although the United States was giving moral and material support to the Allies, it had not yet entered the war.
- One afternoon, two months after the Declaration of St. James Palace, news came that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill were in conference “somewhere at sea.”
- On 14 August, the two leaders issued a joint declaration known as the Atlantic Charter.

- Declaration by United Nations (1 January 1942)

- On 1 January 1942, Churchill, Roosevelt, Maxim Litvinov of the USSR, and T. V. Soong of China signed a short document.
- This document later became known as the Declaration by United Nations.
- The next day, representatives of 22 other nations added their signatures.
- The governments that signed this declaration pledged to accept the Atlantic Charter.

ATLANTIC CHARTER

- President Roosevelt (seated left) and Prime Minister Churchill chat on deck of HMS Prince of Wales following church services during the Atlantic Charter meeting

- Moscow Declaration (October 1943) and Tehran Conference (December 1943)
- By 1943, all the principal Allied nations were committed to working together to create a world in which “men in all lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want.” In October 1943, representatives from the United Kingdom, the United States of America, China, and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics met in Moscow.
- On 30 October, these representatives signed the Moscow Declaration.

- Dumbarton Oaks and Yalta Conferences (1944 – 1945)
- By 1944, many nations agreed that an international organization dedicated to maintaining peace and security was necessary.
- The next step was defining the structure of this new organization.
- For this purpose, representatives of China, the United Kingdom, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and the United States met at Dumbarton Oaks, a private mansion in Washington, D. C.
- The discussions were completed on 7 October 1944. Afterwards, the four nations submitted a proposal for the structure of the new organization to all the allied governments.

Representatives of the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States meeting in the opening session of the Conference on Security Organization for Peace in the Post-War World at the Dumbarton Oaks Estate in Washington, DC, on 21 August 1944.

- The term "four policemen" refers to the Allied powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, and China—who were intended to form the core of a new international security organization after World War II, which ultimately became the United Nations.
- This concept, proposed by U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, envisioned these four nations acting as global peacekeepers to deal with threats to the peace

- San Francisco Conference (1945)

- Delegates from 50 nations gathered in San Francisco.
- They represented over 80% of the world's population.
- These delegates were determined to set up an organization that would preserve peace and help build a better world.
- The main objective of the San Francisco conference, officially known as the United Nations Conference on International Organization (UNCIO), was to produce a charter for this new organization that would be acceptable to all the countries.
- As World War II was about to end in 1945, nations were in ruins, and the world wanted peace.
- Representatives of 50 countries gathered at the United Nations Conference on International Organization in San Francisco, California from 25 April to 26 June 1945.
- For the next two months, they proceeded to draft and then sign the UN Charter, which created a new international organization, the United Nations, which, it was hoped, would prevent another world war like the one they had just lived through.

DECLARATION BY UNITED NATIONS

DECLARATION BY UNITED NATIONS:

A JOINT DECLARATION BY THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND, THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS, CHINA, AUSTRALIA, BELGIUM, CANADA, COSTA RICA, CUBA, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC, EL SALVADOR,
GREECE, GUATEMALA, HAITI, HONDURAS, INDIA, LUXEMBOURG,
NETHERLANDS, NEW ZEALAND, NICARAGUA, NORWAY, PANAMA,
POLAND, SOUTH AFRICA, YUGOSLAVIA.

The Governments signatory hereto,

Having subscribed to a common program of purposes and principles embodied in the Joint Declaration of the President of the United States of America and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland dated August 14, 1941, known as the Atlantic Charter.

Being convinced that complete victory over their enemies is essential to defend life, liberty, independence and religious freedom, and to preserve human rights and justice in their own lands as well as in other lands, and that they are now engaged in a common struggle against savage and brutal forces seeking to subjugate
the world, DECLARE:

(1) Each Government pledges itself to employ its full resources, military or economic, against those members of the Tripartite Pact and its adherents with which such government is at war.

(2) Each Government pledges itself to cooperate with the Governments signatory hereto and not to make a separate armistice or peace with the enemies.

The foregoing declaration may be adhered to by other nations which are, or which may be, rendering material assistance and contributions in the struggle for victory over Hitlerism.

The UN Charter was signed on 26 June 1945 by representatives of the 50 countries

- The 51st member of the United Nations was Poland

- The Preamble of the UN Charter describes the three pillars of the UN. These pillars are:
- Peace and Security
- Human Rights
- Development
- The United Nations came into existence on October 24, 1945, after 29 nations had ratified the Charter.
- UN DAY October 24th

UN: Peace, dignity and equality on a healthy planet

- Main Bodies: GENERAL ASSEMBLY

FIRST MEETING

- The first session of the UN General Assembly was convened on 10 January 1946 in the Methodist Central Hall in London and included representatives of 51 nations
- Subsequently, until moving to its permanent home in Manhattan in 1951, the Assembly convened at the former New York City Pavilion of the 1939 New York World's Fair in Flushing, New York
- On November 29, 1947, the Assembly voted to adopt the United Nations Partition Plan for Palestine at this venue
- All 193 members of the United Nations are members of the General Assembly, with the addition of the Holy See and Palestine as observer states as well as the European Union (since 1974).

The General Assembly: The main deliberative, policymaking and representative organ of the UN

- MEMBER SHIP: 193 Member States
- its powers, composition, functions, and procedures are set out in Chapter IV of the United Nations Charter.
- It is the only UN body with universal representation.
- Each year, in September, the full UN membership meets which many heads of state attend and address.
- Decisions on important questions, such as those on
 - peace and security,
 - admission of new members and
 - budgetary matters, require a two-thirds majority of the General Assembly.
- Decisions on other questions are by simple majority.
- Assembly resolutions are not binding on the members.

- The UNGA is responsible for:

- the UN budget,
- appointing the non-permanent members to the Security Council,
- appointing the secretary-general of the United Nations,
- receiving reports from other parts of the UN System, and
- making recommendations through resolutions.
- It also establishes numerous subsidiary organs to advance or assist in its broad mandate.
- The UNGA is the only UN organ where all member states have equal representation.
- The Assembly may make recommendations on any matters within the scope of the UN, except matters of peace and security under the Security Council's consideration

Member States

- The UN's Membership has grown from the original 51 Member States in 1945 to the current 193 Member States.
- All UN Member States are members of the General Assembly.
- States are admitted to membership by a decision of the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council
- Current session:80th
- Countries are seated alphabetically in the General Assembly according to English translations of the countries' names.
- The country which occupies the front-most left position is determined annually by the secretary-general via ballot draw. The remaining countries follow alphabetically after it.

President of the General Assembly

- The president of the United Nations General Assembly is a position voted by representatives in the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) on a yearly basis
- The presidency rotates annually between the five geographic groups:
- African, Asia-Pacific, Eastern European, Latin American and Caribbean, and Western European and other States.
- Because of their powerful stature globally, some of the largest, most powerful countries have never held the presidency, including the five permanent members of the United Nations Security Council and Japan.
- Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit (1900–1990) became president in 1953
- Annalena Baerbock (born 1980) Germany 2025

Security Council

- Primary responsibility, under the UN Charter
 - maintenance of international peace and security.
 - It has 15 Members (5 permanent and 10 non-permanent members).
 - Each Member has one vote.
 - Under the Charter, all Member States are obligated to comply with Council decisions.
 - The Security Council takes the lead in determining the existence of a threat to the peace or act of aggression.
 - It calls upon the parties to a dispute to settle it by peaceful means and recommends methods of adjustment or terms of settlement.
 - In some cases, the Security Council can resort to imposing sanctions or even authorize the use of force to maintain or restore international peace and security.
 - The Security Council has a Presidency, which rotates, and changes, every month

Trusteeship Council

- The Trusteeship Council was established in 1945 by the UN Charter, under Chapter XIII,
 - to provide international supervision for 11 Trust Territories that had been placed under the administration of seven Member States, and
 - ensure that adequate steps were taken to prepare the Territories for self-government and independence.
- By 1994, all Trust Territories had attained self-government or independence.
- The Trusteeship Council suspended operation on 1 November 1994.
- By a resolution adopted on 25 May 1994, the Council amended its rules of procedure to drop the obligation to meet annually and agreed to meet as occasion required

International Court of Justice

- The International Court of Justice is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations.
- Its seat is at the Peace Palace in the Hague (Netherlands).
- It is the only one of the six principal organs of the United Nations not located in New York (United States of America).
- The Court's role is to settle, in accordance with international law, legal disputes submitted to it by States and to give advisory opinions on legal questions referred to it by authorized United Nations organs and specialized agencies.
- The International Court of Justice functions in accordance with its Statute.
- The creation of the Court represented the culmination of a long process of developing methods for the pacific settlement of international disputes, the origins of which can be traced back to classical times.

- The International Court of Justice is composed of 15 judges elected to nine-year terms of office by the United Nations General Assembly and the Security Council.
- Elections are held in New York (United States of America) during the annual autumn session of the General Assembly. The judges elected at a triennial election commence their term of office on 6 February of the following year
- The President and Vice-President are elected by the Members of the Court every three years by secret ballot.
